ABOUT

VIKTORIA VAKULENKO

UX & Web Designer

My goal is to inspire others with my work and help clients and companies achieve their goals through effective and creative design solutions.

My name is Viktoria, and I recently graduated from Algonquin College with a degree in Interactive Media Design. I came to Canada as an international student and chose this program because of my passion for various aspects of design, and I am confident that I made the right career choice. I love creativity and this profession!

Among the many fields of design, I am particularly drawn to UX and UI design because I see potential in myself for this direction. I always put users first, considering how the product will be convenient and beneficial for them. I enjoy making things more functional, user-friendly, and efficient, and I often get frustrated by inconvenient or confusing interfaces.

Therefore, I am excited about the opportunity to join a team of professionals where I can continue to develop as a specialist in this field!

Aurora Dome Sky 2024-05-20

It seemed like night, but part of the sky glowed purple. It was the now famous night of May 10, 2024, when people over much of the world reported beautiful aurora-filled skies. The featured image was captured this night during early morning hours from Arlington, Wisconsin, USA. The panorama is a composite of several 6-second exposures covering two thirds of the visible sky, with north in the center, and processed to heighten the colors and remove electrical wires. The photographer (in the foreground) reported that the aurora appeared to flow from a point overhead but illuminated the sky only toward the north. The aurora's energetic particles originated from CMEs ejected from our Sun over sunspot AR 3664 a few days before. This large active region rotated to the far side of the Sun last week, but may well survive to rotate back toward the Earth next week.
